TUESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 12

MOURNING.—Mourning is in reality selfishness. A person wears it because he expects others to wear it for him, and he imagines that by this means his individuality will be prolonged for a brief period after his death. It may appear a hard hearted view, but if any one would take the trouble to regard the matter from the standpoint of common sense, he must come to the conclusion that, of all conventions, the wearing of mourning is the most foolish.—London Truth.

KINDNESS.—Who ever did a real kindness for another without leaving a warm glow of satisfaction crept into some shady corner of the heart, and left with content and peace? I like tying a knot of violin and mignonette into the button hole, just where their perfume may rise deliciously to our noses all day.

"Go out, young man, she's not here," said a preacher in the pulpit of his sermon to a youth whom he saw standing hesitatingly at the portal.

A very popular shade for the summer is the shade of the trees.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

By virtue of authority vested in us by the State Central Committee, we herby do decree to Wednesday, the 21st day of August, 1880, as the time, and Alexandria as the place, for holding a convention to nominate the Democratic candidate for Congress in the 8th Congressional District of Virginia.

The basis of representation will be one delegate and one alternate to every one hundred votes and fractions of one hundred exceeding fifty cast for Tilson and Hendricks in 1876.

Delegates to said convention are to be selected by county, district or ward meetings, or by primary election by wards or districts, as the various county or city committees may elect, and at such times as the respective county or city committees may determine; provided, that if district or ward meetings or primary elections are adjourned, such meetings or elections in any one county or city shall be held on the same day.
